Brewers Preview

The Brewers started their season on Thursday, March 30th in Chicago against the Cubs. The Brewers are hoping to have a bounce back year after missing the postseason for the first time in 4 years. Craig Counsell is back as the manager for his 9th season.

The Brewers pitching staff should be the strength of the team once again. It is led by former Cy Young winner Corbin Burnes and Brandon Woodruff. The bullpen is projected to take a small step back, but is anchored by one of the best relievers in baseball, Devin Williams.

As far as position players there will be a lot of familiar faces with a few new ones sprinkled in. Willy Adames, Rowdy Tellez, Christian Yelich, and new catcher William Contreras should be among the better hitters on the team. William was acquired in a 3-way trade from the Braves. He was an all-star last year and is hoping to have another successful season.

The NL Central appears to be a 3 team race between the Brewers, Cardinals, and Cubs. Let's hope for a great summer of Brewers baseball that will lead to a post-season appearance. Go Brewers!!

A Message From Sherri

Welcome to March!

Spring is finally here, and we are getting closer to warmer weather!

Just wanted to introduce myself as I am very excited to be part of Jay's team!

I am married to my husband Mark, and we have four children and two dogs (yellow lab and dachshund mix). My oldest son lives in Madison, my daughter attends the University of Whitewater, my other son Jack attends WCTC, and my youngest son Luke is in 8th grade. We keep ourselves busy with sports (football, baseball, track). Our family enjoys grilling out and spending time outdoors. I enjoy reading, cooking, baking, and taking long walks. An interesting fact about me is that I have been on the longest zipline in America (Toro Verde), equivalent to 28 football fields, in Puerto Rico.

Looking forward to getting to know you all!

Sincerely,

Sherri
